IMPORTANT SPRING NOVELS

The following novels are in the Press of G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS, for publication in the early Spring, and promise to be among the noteworthy books of the season.

By the author of An Artist in Crime.

THE CRIME OF THE CENTURY.

By RODRIGUES OTTOLENGUI. (Hudson Library.) 12mo, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00. (Now ready.)

"The most blasé novel-reader will be unable to put this story aside until he has mastered the mystery which the author has so skilfully woven for him at the beginning. It is a most ingenious and absorbingly interesting detective story and will hold the reader's attention to the end."

By the same author:

An Artist in Crime. 16mo, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00. (Seventh edition.)

A Conflict of Evidence. 16mo, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00. (Third edition.)

A Modern Wizard. 16mo, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00. (Second edition.)

By the author of Dodo.

THE BABE, B.A.

Stories of Life at Cambridge University. By EDWARD F. BENSON. (Being No. 3 in the University Series.)

Previously published in this series:

I. Harvard Stories. By W. K. POST. (Ninth edition.)

II. Yale Yarns. By J. S. WOOD. (Third edition.)

In preparation.

IV. The Princetonian. By JAMES BARNES.

V. Sketches of Dublin University.

By the author of Her Majesty.

THE BROKEN RING.

By ELIZABETH KNIGHT TOMPKINS. (No. 15 in the Hudson Library.) 12mo, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00.

By the same author:

An Unlessoned Girl. A Story for Girls. $1.25.

Her Majesty. Paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00. (Third edition.)

"Droch" says: "It is written with a charming style, with grace and ease and very pretty unexpected turns of expression. . . . It sparkles with delicious fancy, and it is a clean-minded love-story that is neither prudish nor stupidly Philistine."

By the author of The Red Spell.

THE THINGS THAT MATTER.

By FRANCIS GRIBBLE. (No. 13 in the Hudson Library.) 12mo, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00.

"The novels of Francis Gribble have placed him well in the front rank of the younger English story-writers of the day. This particular novel is especially strong in its analyses of certain rather morbid traits in our civilization, and in its sane and healthy treatment of the somewhat jaded theme of an unhappy marriage."

By author of The Wind in the Clearing.

WILL O' THE WASP.

A Sea Yarn of the War of 1812. By ROBERT CAMERON ROGERS. 12mo, cloth.

"This is a straight, strong sea yarn, full of quaint humor and of stirring incident. It will very naturally be asked to bear comparison with 'Kidnapped,' 'Pleasure Island,' 'Two Years Before the Mast,' etc., etc., but we think it will not suffer greatly by comparison."

By the author of The King in Yellow.

THE MAKER OF MOONS.

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS. 12mo, ornamental cloth.

"In this book Mr. Chambers returns to the manner of 'The King in Yellow.' It is as perfect in workmanship, as brilliantly conceived, and just as consummately finished."

By the same author:

The Red Republic. A Tale of the Commune. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

"By far the most notable book of the week. The sort of historical novel which has a chance of living very far into the next century. . . . A wonderfully real and intensely vital picture . . . carries you along to the last page in a pleasurable state of excitement. . . . A book that will hold your attention from the first page to the last. . . . The best American novel of the year."—VANCE THOMPSON, Commercial Advertiser.

NOTES IN SEASON.

W. S. FORTESCUE & Co., Philadelphia, will publish shortly a novel by M. W. Lewis, entitled "The Wife's Vow."

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish shortly Mrs. Mary Anderson de Navarro's reminiscences under the title of "A Few Memoirs."

HENRY HOLT & Co. will publish at once "On Parody," an essay on the art by Arthur Shadwell Martin, with numerous selections from its masters, beginning with the Greeks and Romans. Most of the earlier pieces are inaccessible to readers of to-day.

THE CASSELL PUBLISHING Co. have just ready a new novel by Frank Frankfort Moore entitled "Phyllis of Philistia"; "Official Diplomatic and Social Etiquette of Washington," compiled by Katherine Elwes Thomas, with an introductory note by Mrs. John A. Logan; and in their Union Square Library, "Old Maids and Young," by Elsa d'Esterre-Keeling.

A. F. BLANCK, 4 W. Twenty-eighth Street, New York, has just ready an interesting work entitled "Sarah Bernhardt, artist and woman," by A. L. Renner. The work is full of new and interesting anecdotes of Alex. Dumas fils, Renan, Rochefort, Rachel, and others, and contains autograph pages specially written for the work by Sarah Bernhardt, and 64 illustrations of costumes and scenery.

MACMILLAN & Co. have in preparation "The Pilgrim, and other poems," by Ellen Burroughs [Miss Sophie Jewett], whose verse is well known to readers of the Century, Scribner's, and other magazines; an annotated edition (in the Eversley Series) of Hood's poems prepared by Canon Ainger on the same lines as his selections from Lamb; and "Greek Sculpture," by E. A. Gardner, which will be the first of a series of hand books in classical archæology and antiquities.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish at once a volume of short stories by Richard Harding Davis entitled "La Cinderella, and other stories," which will contain five stories, a new Van Bibber story being among the number. The Scribners have made arrangements to publish Paul Bourget's "A Tragic Idyll," which was published serially in the New York Herald; Julian Hawthorne's $10,000 Herald prize story, "A Fool of Nature," and Miss Edith Carpenter's Herald prize story, "Your Money or Your Life."

RALPH B. KENYON, Tribune Building, New York, will publish early in March a work entitled "Mosby's Rangers," by James J. Williamson, of Company A, Forty-third Battalion, Virginia Cavalry. The foundation of the work is a diary which the author kept of events from day to day, from the time he joined the command—before the first company was formed—until the surrender. To this he has added much interesting material gathered from different sources, giving details of various engagements of which he had notes, but in which he did not personally participate. The whole is supplemented with the official government reports, both Federal and Confederate, covering the same matters, making a complete and authentic record. The work will contain upwards of 200 illustrations, including portraits of many of Mosby's men and of Federal officers.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish on the 26th inst. a work entitled "Moral Evolution," by Prof. George Harris, D.D., of Andover, which is described as "a contribution of positive value to the higher thought and literature"; "The Life of Thomas Hutchinson, last Royal Governor of the Province of Massachusetts Bay," by James K. Hosmer, whose work adds materially to our knowledge of the Revolutionary era; "In New England Fields and Woods," by Rowland E. Robinson, who writes with minute observation, and an interest in nature so deep as to be truly affectionate; a new Birthday Edition, from new plates, of Oliver Wendell Holmes's "Over the Teacups"; also new editions of Harriet Beecher Stowe's "Pink and White Tyranny," and of Julia A. Shedd's "Famous Painters and Paintings" and "Famous Sculptors and Sculpture." The two latter have been considerably enlarged and are published at a reduced price.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no prices, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

woman. The sister runs away with a man who has no intention of marrying her, and Persis is left distracted, ashamed, poor, and alone. Her troubles do not end here, both members of her family returning to her after she has earned a little money, and they in their turn are destitute. Her bitterness over her apparently endless misfortunes is in the end turned to joy by the love of a good man.

Coyle, J: Patterson, D.D. The spirit in literature and life: the E. D. Rand lectures in Iowa College for the year, 1894. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1896. c. '95. 12+247 p. D. cl., $1.50. [482

A series of lectures given at Iowa College, in which the late Dr. Coyle attempted "to interpret the spirit latent in Hebrew literature and life expressing itself in Jesus Christ and continuing in the broad stream of Christianity." It is a book representing well the type and tendency of modern religious thought.

Dana, Ja. D. The geological story briefly told. N. Y., American Book Co., [1896.] c. '95. 302 p. il. D. cl., $1.25. [483

The story of the earth's foundations popularly told.

Davis, Rebecca Harding. Doctor Warrick's daughters: a novel. N. Y., Harper, 1896. c. 3+301 p. il. D. cl., $1.50. [484

Doctor Warrick had two daughters, Mildred and Anne. Mildred was selfish, fond of fashion and money, while Anne was the opposite. Mildred had two lovers, John Soudé, a Southerner with whom she was in love, and David Plunket, a Pennsylvanian of enormous wealth. Disappointed in the money she expected from a cousin, Mrs. Joyce, learning that John was very poor, and hearing that David had made "a hundred millions" by an oil deal, Mildred broke her engagement with John and married David, only to find out afterwards that John was really well off. Anne fell in love with Brooke Calhoun, an unselfish young man who had sacrificed everything for his younger brother Edward, and made a happy marriage.

Defoe, Dan. The life and adventures of Robinson Crusoe; written by himself. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1896. 4–378 p. il. O. cl., $1. [485

Del Mar, Alex. History of monetary systems: a record of actual experiments made by various states of the ancient and modern world, as drawn from their statutes, customs, treaties, mining regulations, jurisprudence, history, archæology, coins, and other sources of information. N. Y., Brentano's, 1895. 8°, cl., $5. [486

Donnelly, Eleanor Cecilia. Tuscan Magdalen, and other legends and poems. Phil., H. L. Kilner & Co., [1896.] c. 2–205 p. O. cl., net, 75 c.; gilt edges, cl., net, $1.25. [487

Miss Donnelly is a Philadelphia authoress, who has produced many volumes of poems and prose, often exhibiting a sentiment quite devout; the present volume contains some of her best efforts; the legends are picturesque and refined, and tell a story directly and gracefully.

Dunn, Ja. D. Manual of geology treating of the principles of the science; with special reference to American geological history. 4th ed. N. Y., American Book Co., 1895. c. '94. 1087 p. il. O. cl., $5. [488

In the preparation of this edition of the manual the work has been wholly rewritten. North American geological history is still, however, its chief subject. The work is considerably enlarged both through more text and more illustrations.

Hamilton, Kate W. The parson's proxy. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1896. c. 3+303 p. D. cl., $1.25. [495

A city pastor accepts a call to a remote country parish for the summer. After performing a marriage ceremony among very rough men working on a railroad to which they are bitterly opposed he is suddenly knocked down by one of the roughest of them while under the influence of whiskey. The man immediately feels that he has taken unfair advantages of the parson, whose leg is broken, and he offers to do the parish work while the minister lies sick. His experiences and work while thus "parson by proxy" form the story.

Hornung, E. W. Irralie's bushranger: a story of Australian adventure. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1896. 6+163 p. nar. S. (The ivory ser., no. 4.) cl., 75 c. [504

The scene is the Arran Downs station in New South Wales; the new English owner is being hourly looked for, and the country generally has just been given a fright by a new exploit of the bushranger Stingaree. Irralie is the handsome, independent daughter of the manager, who in one of her drives picks up an exhausted man and horse, the man claiming to be the new owner, but whom she more than suspects of being Stingaree. The mystery and the explanation are the story.

Hough, E. The singing mouse stories. N. Y., Forest and Stream Pub. Co., 1895. c. 9–177 p. il. nar. S. cl., $1. [505

About sixteen little imaginative sketches, gracefully written and poetically conceived, about life and nature, etc.; for grown people's reading; a prettily made book with marginal sketches.

Howard, M. W. The American plutocracy; il. by A. A. Cobb. N. Y., Holland Pub. Co., [1896.] c. 246 p. D. (Holland lib., no. 4.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c. [506

The author is member of Congress from Alabama and an advocate of free coinage of silver. He attributes all the financial troubles of the country to the maintenance of the gold standard. This, he says, has fostered trusts and combinations and made the rich richer and the poor poorer; he gives some startling statistics as to the wealth of the country and as to the poverty. The rapid concentration of wealth in the hands of a few he considers the most alarming sign of the times.

Howells, W: Dean. The day of their wedding: a novel. N. Y., Harper, 1896. c. '95. 3+158 p. il. D. cl., $1.25. [507

A love-tale that shows that habit and environment may be stronger than love. A young man and woman, brought up by the Shakers and trained to celibacy, fall in love and decide to run away from the settlement and marry. They go to Saratoga, where they spend the day sight-seeing, shopping, etc., their unworldliness being more and more evident in every new step they take. Finally a minister marries them, but an hour afterward they decide to return to their old life.

The horrible murder of a wealthy New Yorker in the middle of the night and the arrest of his son as the murderer is the central motive; with this thread are others, such as the stealing and desertion of an infant, the wronging of a young innocent girl by a rich man, which are all gathered together at the end, when the murder and everything else is explained. "The crime of the century," the author argues, is our inhuman method of treating degenerates or criminals.

Ridge, W. Pett. A clever wife: a novel. N. Y., Harper, 1896. c. '95. 3+300 p. D. cl., $1.25. [544

The heroine is a young woman with an object in life—that of compelling women to exert their personal capacity. She endeavors in every way, by her life and by her writings and speeches, to promote this object. She marries a young artist, but only after his promising to let her maintain her independence. On their return from the honeymoon she and her husband live apart, so that she may devote herself to novel-writing. After succeeding in making her husband quite miserable and nearly losing her reputation, and after the failure of her second novel, she has a change of views.

Robinson, H. N. Robinson's new higher arithmetic for high schools, academies, and mercantile colleges. N. Y., American Book Co., [1896.] c. '95. 506 p. D. hf. leath., $1. [545

The present edition of a work first published thirty-five years ago has been thoroughly revised and reset. Nothing of value or merit in the old edition has been discarded, but it has been the aim of the revision to completely modernize the book and to make it fully up to date. While almost every chapter has been entirely rewritten, and much new and valuable matter has been added, the general plan has not been disturbed.

A fresh and sympathetic account of the life of Bayard Taylor, poet, novelist, journalist, translator, traveller, lecturer, and minister to Berlin in 1878, where he died in the following year; he was born at Kennett Square, Chester Co., Pa., Jan., 1825. His career was identical with the rise and progress of literature in this country, and especially with journalism in New York City; his biographer has treated these phases most interestingly, and offers also a keen and intelligent analysis of his principal literary work. A bibliography of his works covers 10 pages. Index.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

FEBRUARY 22, 1896.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

AUTHORS' PUBLISHING SOCIETIES.

THE incorporation of the Associated Authors' Publishing Association, referred to last week and officially announced elsewhere in this issue, is not so entirely new a departure in this country as its projectors seem to imagine. In 1874 a company of authors, who up to that time had been unable to make arrangements of any kind with "monopolistic publishing houses," were induced to join their fortunes to a publishing corporation that did a not altogether profitable business for three or four years, and then disposed of its plant to its manager, a well-meaning but over-sanguine gentleman. We are in doubt whether any one connected with that enterprise emerged satisfied with his investment. All that can be positively stated is that the publications of that publishing company are as dead to-day as they were when they issued from the press. And yet the manager of the company knew his business, and was fairly enterprising in his attempt to push the sale of the books issued at the fiat of his superiors.

Possibly, the new corporation will profit by the lessons of its predecessor. Time will decide that. In the meantime there will be many cooks, and members with axes to grind, and mistakes will be made, and money spent uselessly to attempt to accomplish what hundreds of reputable publishing houses are able to do more satisfactorily and economically, and with less wear and tear on the nerves of the man who can write copy worth publishing.

Publishing means a great deal more than merely printing and binding a book. It means putting it where it is likely to sell. The machinery of distribution, which means the method of getting books into the hands of readers through the various mediums of distribution, is vastly important. To handle this machinery requires special qualification and special training, and even with these a comparatively small number of the thousands of books issued year by year is pecuniarily successful. Still, the business of printing and publishing has a fatal attraction, as even such great authors as Balzac, Scott, and our own "Mark Twain" have experienced to their sorrow; why then should their humbler brothers of the pen not be afforded an opportunity to learn the lesson for themselves?

INTERNATIONAL PUBLISHERS' CONFERENCE.

THE Cercle de la Librairie has issued an invitation to the publishers' and booksellers' associations of all countries to attend an International Conference of publishers to be held in Paris during the first weeks of June next. The exact date has not yet been decided. The object and plan of the congress is thus stated in the prospectus:

The first meeting of the International Publishers' Congress will take place during the first half of the month of June, 1896, and will be held in Paris.

The congress is organized by the Cercle de la Librairie. Only publishers of books, music, works of art, publishers of reviews, magazines, illustrated papers, and delegates from publishers' and booksellers' associations of all countries will be allowed to take part in such a congress.

The first meeting of the congress will occupy three or four days, during which there will be two sessions daily.

The programme and the order of proceedings will be published shortly by the executive committee of the congress, to be addressed at the Cercle de La Librairie, 117 Boulevard Saint Germain, Paris.

All questions relating to the profession of publishing will be put before this congress and also vexed questions of literary and art copyright in their bearings on publishing.

All interested in the proposed questions and desiring to treat them themselves or have them treated by others are requested to notify the executive committee, and submit the papers they desire to bring before the congress.

These papers must be written in French and must reach the committee before April 1.

All expenses of the first congress will be borne by the Cercle de la Librairie. The organization of the congress will be as follows:

A French President.

Vice-Presidents of different nationalities.

A French General Secretary.

Secretaries of different nationalities.

The President and General Secretary will be nominated at once by the executive committee, that they may act in organizing the congress. The other officers will be chosen by the congress.

Before adjournment the congress will decide upon the nation which shall organize the second meeting and determine the date of such meeting.

QUESTIONS SUGGESTED FOR THE PUBLISHERS' CONFERENCE.

1. Use of the metrical system in determining sizes of books.
2. The duty of sending copies of all publications to the proper authorities.
3. Ownership of drawings which have been used in illustrated works.
4. Literary or artistic reproduction of paintings, portraits, and photographs.
5. Does the right to publish a work rest in the person of the publisher or in the firm?
6. Rights of publishers regarding the publishing of letters which have historic interest or are common property.
7. The right to sell plates.
8. The right to publish extracts, selections, or separate parts of books without mentioning the author's or publisher's name.
9. International co-operation of publishers' associations aiming to bring new members into Berne conference.
10. May articles which have appeared in newspapers or periodicals be reprinted or translated without the consent of the authors or publishers?
11. May a literary work be read in public without the consent of the author or publisher?
12. The abolishing of duty on the productions of the book trade.
13. The abolishing of censorship at the custom-houses in Russia and in Turkey.
14. Limited and numbered editions.
15. Regarding the exact dating of books.
16. Adoption of a rule to admit postal packages weighing 5 kilos in all countries belonging to the postal union.
17. Has the publisher the right to destroy plates and abandon the publication of a work that for a period has not seemed to pay?

POST-OFFICE CENSORSHIP.

"THE Government of the United States," according to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, "has a censor. His name is Gen. Frank H. Jones, and he holds the office of First Assistant Postmaster-General. His business is to determine what sort of literary matter or pictures may properly be considered as coming under the head of 'immoral.' Of course, all such stuff is excluded by law from the mails.

"Gen. Jones may be said to edit the 'Index Expurgatorius' of the Post-Office Department. This is the list of books and other publications which have been formally and forever shut out of the United States mails. It includes a large number of works more or less well known, such as 'Why Monks Should Wed' and Tolstoi's 'Kreutzer Sonata.' But the titles are carefully kept from the public, because to make them known would produce exactly the effect that is sought to be avoided, that is to say, it would serve as a capital advertisement for the books in question.

"The Post-Office Department had a lesson on this point during the Wanamaker régime. The 'Kreutzer Sonata,' having been shut out of the mails in several European countries, was translated into English and put on the market by an American publisher. The postmaster at New York thought that the book came under the law already referred to, and the matter was referred to the authorities in Washington. It was decided at headquarters that Tolstoi's work was unfit for decent people to read.

"There are 70,000 postmasters in the United States. If any of them discovers that improper matter is presented to him for mailing he must refuse it. Not to do so is to render himself liable to reprimand and perhaps dismissal. He is responsible for whatever is admitted to the post at his office. This applies in practice to unsealed matter, for he cannot tamper with sealed pieces of mail nor refuse to receive them on mere suspicion. Whatever he does refuse is returned to the sender, or, if the latter is unknown, is forwarded to the Dead Letter Office at Washington.

"If the sender considers that he has been treated unjustly by the postmaster, he has the privilege of appealing to the Post-Office Department. In such a case the postmaster may be either sustained or overruled. Again, if the postmaster is in doubt, he may submit the dubious matter to the department for examination and decision. In any instance of doubt or dispute the examination is made and the decision rendered by the First Assistant Postmaster-General. If that official desires advice, he refers to the Attorney-General of the department, but the latter has no control. The only censor for Uncle Sam at present is Gen. Frank H. Jones.

"It often happens that matter is submitted for judgment to the Post-Office Department by persons or firms who want to know whether or not it will be accepted for mailing. Thus an art publishing concern might desire to sell a very pretty but decidedly improper photogravure. It would not desire, perhaps, to spend a lot of money in printing and mounting the pictures, if they could not be sent through the post. An instance of this sort occurred only the other day. In such a case, as a rule, the department declines to make any ruling. It replies that the opinion of the Postmaster-General does not govern, and advises the applicant to read the law or to consult an attorney.

"This seems rather puzzling, but it is easily explained. If improper matter is put into the mails it is the business of the law branch of the Government to prosecute, and not that of the Post-Office Department. Suppose that the Post-Office Department had already expressed its approval of the matter. Then a United States District Attorney might say: 'What do I care about the Post-Office Department? This is business for the Department of Justice, and I am going to prosecute.' In other words, the question as to whether the matter is indecent or not can be decided only by a jury. The Post-Office Department will not take the trouble to edit literary stuff submitted to it, and it does not propose to serve as a buffer between a person accused and the Department of Justice.

"Sealed matter bearing letter postage cannot be tampered with in the mail legally, but it ceases to be sacred when it has reached the Dead Letter Office at Washington. The indecent matter contained in occasional letters and packages is taken out at the opening table and put aside, including 'flash' books and pamphlets, photographs of what is called the 'fancy' sort, etc. This material is put up in bundles by the clerk in charge of the opening division, and eventually it is conveyed to a large furnace in the basement of the Post-Office Department and there burned to ashes. Now and then a sample is preserved, to be carefully jacketed and filed away; but this is only done where the department has made a decision that was rather a 'close' one, the question of admission to the mails being decided on a narrow line. Such samples serve as precedents for action when similar things come up for decision.

"Many prosecutions might be based upon the contents of letters and parcels that reach the Dead Letter Office. But that office is entirely divorced from the legal business of the Post-Office Department. The seal of confidence rests upon all matter thus received, and is respected by the Government. The penalty, by the way, for sending indecent stuff is a maximum of $5000 fine and five years at hard labor for each offence proved. Thus a person who makes a business of violating the statute may easily get himself sent to prison for half his life."

THE ASSOCIATED AUTHORS' PUBLISHING COMPANY.

As noted in our last week's issue the members of the American Authors' Guild, at its regular monthly meeting at the Windsor Hotel, New York, on the 12th inst., discussed the proposition to form a mutual publishing company. We are now officially informed that a corporation named the Associated Authors' Publishing Company has been formed in the interests of authors, which is intended to work in close affiliation with the Guild. The publications of the new company, it is stated, will be limited to the approved works of its stockholders, who are members of the Guild, or eligible for membership, or who are members of the kindred institutions in London and Paris. The company will publish works at the author's expense. The cost, however, will be as low as a co-operative concern—which cannot benefit by an overcharge—can make them, and the author will be entitled to the profits of his or her work, less a small percentage for handling it. The company will also undertake to push its publications to the utmost.

The capital of the company is $50,000 in 2500 shares of $20 each. Many of the members have already signified their desire to subscribe for the stock of the new company.

Among the incorporators of the new company are the following: Gen. James Grant Wilson, president of the American Authors' Guild; Frank R. Lawrence, president of the Lotos Club; Hon. David Banks Sickles, vice-president of the American Surety Company; Cortlandt S. Van Rensselaer, John Elderkin, Chandos Fulton, and Wm. Henry White, vice-president of the Lotos Club.

BOOKS AS TRANSMITTERS OF DISEASE.

THE old question as to the influence of public libraries in disseminating infection is revived through a communication to the Académie de Médecine by Du Cazal and Catrin, which is devoted to this question, and in which it is shown that the leaves of books soiled by streptococcus pus, pneumonic pus, and expectoration, or by diphtherial false membranes, were capable, after several days, of transmitting these maladies to animals inoculated by bouillon in which pieces of the leaves 1 centimetre square had been soaked. In regard to the question how far it is possible to disinfect books that have become charged with a contagium, these authors show that there are considerable difficulties in the way. Of chemical disinfectants they recommend the vapor of formic aldehyde in which calcium chloride has been dissolved. By means of this they obtained complete disinfection, except in regard to typhoid fever. By exposure to high-pressure steam, however, they got good results—the disinfection was perfect and complete. But in the case of bound books the steam had very destructive effects, the millboard being softened and the cloth wrinkled. Stitched books, however, were uninjured, no harm being done either to the paper, the ink, or even to colored engravings

One is glad to hear that the risk is greatly enhanced in the case of those objectionable persons who moisten their fingers in order to turn over the leaves. Drs. Du Cazal and Catrin recommend that any book which may be suspected should be baked for disinfection in an oven. The best advice to give under these circumstances is never to borrow books, but for each man and woman to buy his or her own copy. Authors and publishers can only benefit by Drs. Du Cazal and Catrin's communiqué to the Academy of Medicine.

OBITUARY NOTES.

WILLIAM LATHROP KINGSLEY, who was for forty years editor of The New Englander and the Yale Review, and a recognized authority on literary and philosophical matters, died in New Haven, Conn., on the 14th inst. He was born in New Haven, in April, 1824. In 1857 he became editor of The New Englander, which in 1892 was merged in the Yale Review. In 1861 he edited and published the "Contributions to the Ecclesiastical History of Connecticut," embodying a vast number of ecclesiastical facts and records prepared under the direction of the General Association (Congregational) of Connecticut, to commemorate the completion of 150 years since its first annual assembly. Later he edited the two massive and luxurious quarto volumes entitled "Yale College: a sketch of its history," published in 1879 by Henry Holt & Co. Among papers from Mr. Kingsley's pen which originally appeared in The New Englander and were afterwards printed separately, is a sketch of the Rev. David Trumbull, of Valparaiso, Chili.

FREDERICK GEORGE GIBBS died at Detroit, Mich., on February 3, nearly fifty-one years old. Mr. Gibbs was well known in the book and stationery trade, having been identified with it in Detroit since 1864. He was the only brother of Henry C. A. Gibbs, with the Boorum & Pease Company, and was born in Bath, England, in 1845. Coming to this country in 1864, he entered the employ of E. B. Smith & Co., where he remained until he went into business for himself in East Saginaw, and in 1871 associated himself with the late William Boothroyd, and started the book business in Detroit under the style of Boothroyd & Gibbs. This firm failed, and in 1874 Mr. Gibbs took charge of the retail department of the house of John Willyoung, successor of J. M. Arnold. When Mr. Willyoung died the Methodist Book Concern succeeded to the business, and Mr. Gibbs continued up to the time of his death with Hunt & Eaton.

T. J. KELLAM, of the Kellam Book and Stationery Company, Topeka, Kan., died on February 4, as the result of injuries in a railroad collision at Cripple Creek.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

THE first instalment of Marion Crawford's latest novel, "Taquisira," appeared in The Queen for January.

HENRY JAMES is at work on a short story for Chapman's Magazine. Mr. James is said to have dealt very successfully in his tale with a supernatural element.

AMÉLIE RIVES, who up to last October was Mrs. John Armstrong Chanler, was married on the 18th inst. at Charlottesville, Va., to Prince Pierre Troubetzkoi, a Russian of some fame as a composer and artist.

R. H. SHERARD writes to The Author that he has learned on good authority that since the death of Victor Hugo the receipts from his works have reached a total close upon seven and a half millions of francs ($1,500,000).

LORRIN F. DELAND, the head coach of the Harvard foot-ball team, and Walter Camp, the Yale expert, have been for some months at work collaborating a volume on the game of foot-ball, which is to be published in the fall.

A DICTIONARY of the musical artists, authors, and composers of Great Britain and the Colonies is being prepared for issue to subscribers by J. D. Brown (librarian Clerkenwell Public Library, London, Eng.), and Stephen S. Stratton, under the title "British Musical Biography."

DR. WEIR MITCHELL has just put the finishing touches to his new story, "Hugh Wynne (Free Quaker): Sometime Brevet Lieutenant-Colonel on the Staff of His Excellency, George Washington." The time of the story covers a period of exactly thirty years, from 1753 to 1783, and deals largely with the Whig Quaker and the social life of Philadelphia in the eighteenth century. It describes the wild life of the British occupation, the stormy Quaker meetings when the Whig Quakers were "disowned," the partisans like the madcap Allan McLane, and the life of camp and field up to Yorktown.

DAN C. BEARD, the artist, who has probably contributed as much to the entertainment of American boys and girls as any living author, has in preparation a new book entitled "The American Boys' Book of Sports." It will tell about the newest things in kites, games with marbles and tops, boating and boat-making, stilts, counting-out rhymes, indoor winter sports of various kinds, and a multitude of other pleasures. The contents of the book will be arranged in four parts, according to the seasons, each season having the sports and games appropriate to it, and the pages will be fully illustrated. Mr. Beard will have his new book ready for publication, by Charles Scribner's Sons, in the early fall.

PERSONAL NOTES.

AT the monthly meeting of the Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, held on the 18th inst. at the Methodist Book Concern, the Rev. Dr. Homer Eaton was elected to succeed the late Dr. Sanford Hunt as treasurer of the society. Dr. Eaton has held many posts of importance within the jurisdiction of the General Conference of the Church, and after having served as a member of the Book Committee from 1880 to 1884, and having been re-elected in the last-mentioned year, he was three years later chosen to the position of agent of the Methodist Book Concern of New York to fill the vacancy caused by the death of John M. Phillips. In 1892 he was re-elected by the General Conference. At the last session of the Book Committee, held in Cincinnati a week ago, the death of Dr. Hunt was announced. The committee at once said it would not fill the vacancy, as it did not desire to anticipate the action of the General Conference, which will meet in May next in Cleveland. This throws the entire responsibility on the shoulders of the surviving agent, Dr. Eaton, who, in addition, is now the treasurer of the Missionary Society. Last year the Missionary Society disbursed $1,237,845.62. Dr. Eaton has made the publishing department a particular study, and is known as an excellent accountant. The publishing interests of the house will thus go forward with no break as a result of the death of Dr. Hunt. Out of the profits of the Book Concern last year $140,000 was given to aged ministers. The salaries of the agents are the same as those paid to bishops of the Church, and the position is one of the most responsible and important within the gift of the Church. Dr. Eaton resides in Madison, N. J., and is a trustee of Drew Theological Seminary, which is located there. He is also treasurer of the Tract Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

The Home Study Review is published by and in the interest of The Home Study Association, Ann Arbor, Mich.

The Poster is the title of a neat monthly magazine that devotes itself exclusively to posters, their artists and publishers. Edited and published by Will M. Clemens, P. O. Box 1716, New York.

The Clipping Collector, a monthly journal devoted to the collecting of newspaper clippings for pleasure or profit, is the latest candidate for public favor in trade journalism. Its editor and publisher is Frank A. Burrelle, Western Union Building, New York. ($1 a year.)

The Parisian is the title of a new monthly magazine published by M. L. Dexter from 915–917 Carnegie Hall, Fifty-seventh Street and Seventh Avenue, New York. The purpose of the management is to reproduce in English contemporaneous articles from the leading French and other Continental periodicals. The promise is made that it "will contain such selections from the best writers of the day as are calculated to keep the American readers in touch with European topics of general interest." Fiction, essays, criticisms, and biography all will be drawn upon. The first number contains articles by Dumas fils, Prince Karageorgevitch, Charles Gounod, Emile Ollivier, and Marcel Prévost. It has a few illustrations, and is well printed.

WITH its twenty-seventh volume, covering July–December, The Critic completes its fifteenth year of comprehensive and reliable record of events of interest to cultured American readers. Though giving desultory articles on public events, and unprejudiced reviews of theatrical and art works of merit, The Critic is chiefly a literary paper. In its special field this volume shows excellent work. 827 books have been reviewed, among them Hardy's "Jude the Obscure," which met with severe disapproval, and George Meredith's "Amazing Marriage," also rather harshly treated. The centennials of Carlyle and Keats were treated in most interesting papers, and the volume contains many portraits of people distinguishing themselves in literature. The obituaries of Huxley, Alexandre Dumas, Eugene Field, W. W. Story, Gustave Droz, and Richard M. Hunt were especially well written.

NOTES ON CATALOGUES.

THE February issue of the London Bookseller contains a short-title list (by author and title) of the English books of 1895. Only books published at 2*s.* and upwards have been included; nevertheless the list is a complete register so far as original works are concerned. The list takes up 64 pages double column and is sold separately at one shilling.

W. WEBER, Berlin, has just issued the second half of the first volume of the new and enlarged edition of Potthast's "Bibliotheca historica medii ævi." The work is a comprehensive, if not complete, index to the historical literature of the Middle Ages to the 15th century, especially to that contained in the works of Bouquet, Migne, Muratori, Boll's "Acta Sanctorum," the "Rerum britannicar. scriptores," and in the "Monum. Germ. hist." The work is arranged in three sections: (1) collections with reference to Europe in general, (2) special countries and periods, and (3) an alphabetical list with full title. These furnish the fullest material for ordering or for checking off what a buyer may have or need. The first volume closed with the letter A. (321–800 p. 8°, 12 marks.)

NOTES AND QUERIES.

DR. FORTIQUE AND THE VENEZUELAN QUESTION.—A short time ago we had an inquiry concerning a pamphlet by Dr. Fortique on the Venezuelan question which our correspondent thought had been published in England a few years ago. All inquiries concerning the book have thus far been in vain. Possibly some of our readers may throw light on the subject. For the following information re Fortique we are indebted to Mr. W. E. Foster, of the Providence (R. I.) Public Library:

FORTIQUE, Mariano Fernandez. Oracion fúnebre que en las exequias hechas por el clero de Carácas al ilustrísimo Señor Dr. Manuel José Mosqueras Arzobispo de Santa Fé de Bogotá, pronunció en la S. T. M. el ilustrísimo Señor M. F. Fortique Obispo de Guayana, el dia 23 de Marzo de 1854. Carácas, 1854. 8vo, pp. 24. [Sabin.]

[From the above it would appear that in 1854 this diplomatist was a bishop and pronounced the funeral oration on an archbishop.]

RIVERO, Nicanor. Exequias hechas al Ilustrísimo Señor Doctor Mariano Fernandez Fortique, Antiquo Obispo de Guayana, en la S. T. Metropolitana el dia 11 de Diciembre. Carácas, 1866. 8vo, pp. 15. [Sabin.]

[From the above it would appear that the funeral oration over Fortique himself was pronounced in 1866, and that there is perhaps 90 per cent. of probability—though not certainty—that his death occurred in the same year as the oration.]

For an outline of the correspondence of 1842 between Lord Aberdeen and Señor Fortique (the Venezuelan envoy), see the British Foreign Office papers; the Venezuelan Foreign Office papers; the U. S. reports on "Foreign relations"; the pamphlet by W. L. Scruggs, on "British aggressions" (1895); and that by E. R. Johnes, "Anglo-Venezuelan controversy and the Monroe Doctrine" (New York, 1888).

See also the above, as rapidly summarized in the correspondence of 1895, between the U S. State Department and the British Foreign Office. (Printed in Congressional Record, Dec. 17, 1895, v. 28, p. 204–12.)

BUSINESS NOTES.

ATLANTA, GA.—James F. Meegan has removed from 113 Whitehall Street to more commodious quarters in the "Electrical Building," 23 Marietta Street.

BALTIMORE, MD.—W. H. Schleigh, of 946 W. Broadway, who claimed to be a bookseller, was arrested recently by the Federal authorities for fraudulent use of the mails.

BEATRICE, NEB.—The Misses Estella Keim, Callie Cole, and Mr. Erastus Cooke, who carry on a book and stationery business under the firm-name of W. H. Hoffstot, report favorable progress and enter their third year full of hopes.

COLUMBIA, S. C.—L. E. Fords, bookseller, is closing out his business.

DETROIT, MICH.—John A. De Tar has removed his book and stationery business from Hutchinson, Kan., to this city. He has taken a store at 105–107 Michigan Avenue.

MONTPELIER, VT.—George R. Ehle, dealer in books, etc., has succeeded the estate of D. F. Long.

NEW YORK CITY.—The American Publishers' Corporation is the name of the successor of the United States Book Company. Mr. Charles W. Gould, the receiver of the old corporation, has turned over to the new company the stock in trade, electrotype plates, and publications of the United States Book Co., Lovell, Coryell & Co., and of the International Book Co. This leaves the plant of four other branches — Hovendon Co., Seaside Pub. Co., National Book Co., and Empire Pub. Co.—unprovided for. At the time of our going to press we are unable to learn further particulars, which must be deferred to another issue. The new corporation will continue business at 310–318 Sixth Avenue.

NEW YORK CITY.—Merrill & Baker will remove, March 1, to larger and more convenient quarters at 9–11 East Sixteenth Street.

NEW YORK CITY.—James Pott & Co. have leased the store at the corner of Fourth Avenue and 22d Street, in the Church Mission Building, and will remove to it on May 1.

NORFOLK, VA.—About March 1 there will be established in this city, by two well-known young men, another book and stationery business. The new firm, Alfriend & Murray, will consist of James V. Alfriend and Hugh M. Murray, and their headquarters will be at No. 104 Main Street, the store formerly occupied by Hume & Bilisoly. The senior member of the firm, after an experience of sixteen years with Vickery & Co., is considered one of the most competent bookmen in the State, while the junior member is cashier of The Landmark. They propose to keep one of the finest stocks in their line of business to be found in the State.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

PAUL DUPONT, Paris, has just issued the first part of Henri Rochefort's "Aventures de ma Vie."

LEONARD SMITHERS, London, will publish at once an édition de luxe of Pope's "The Rape of the Lock," illustrated with eight elaborate drawings by Aubrey Beardsley.

THE new and, from a Roman Catholic point of view, the authentic life of Cardinal Manning, already promised by his executors, will be prepared by the Oblates of St. Charles, members of the community which the cardinal himself founded at Bayswater.

GINN & CO. will add to their Classics for Children an edition of "White's Natural History of Selborne," edited for school and home use, with introductions and notes by Prof. Edward S. Morse, director of the Peabody Academy of Science, Salem, Mass.

WARD, LOCK & BOWDEN have in press a novel of gipsy life entitled "Kriegspiel: the war game," by Francis Hinde Groome, author of "In Gipsy Tents," and a recognized authority on Romany matters. The book, which may be compared to Borrow's famous work "Lavengro," relates some extraordinary adventures among the gipsies.

GEORGE ALLEN will publish shortly a third edition of "Ruskin's Letters to the Clergy on the Lord's Prayer and the Church," which has been out of print for nearly fifteen years. It is edited by the Rev. S. A. Malleson, who has been permitted to add several fresh letters by Mr. Ruskin, while he has reduced the number of those by the clergy and laity.

MACMILLAN & CO. have in press a volume of essays by W. H. Mallock, in which he discusses the distribution of wealth (controverting the principles laid down by Karl Marx), the minimum of humane living, wages, the products of work, and the census and the people. They will publish in the spring the edition of the works of Bishop Butler, upon which Mr. Gladstone has for some time been engaged.

IT is interesting to note that a bookseller was the pioneer of the useful newspaper clipping bureaus. Long prior to the establishment in this country of any bureau of clippings the late Mr. August Brentano, the founder of the firm of Brentano's, furnished clippings on special subjects to customers. It was precisely, on a smaller scale, what has now been systematized and extended so largely by the several clipping bureaus in this country.

"THE WOMAN'S BIBLE," of which so much was expected by its projectors, threatens to die in its beginnings. The sensation expected for it came, but unfortunately it was a sensation of another sort. The hope of its projectors was, in the first place, that the work would be taken seriously. Or, even if this failed, it was expected that the talk it was destined to create would at least mean a large sale for the book. But the public refused to accept the book seriously, and the critics refused to review it except in strong words of condemnation. In fact, the work has been so ridiculed that the women who were ready to accept it in part have refused to stand sponsors for it.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. are to be the American publishers of the long-desired and "definitive" edition of Burns, edited by William Ernest Henley and T. F. Henderson. It is to possess a thoroughly clarified text and in every way possible it will render unnecessary the services of editors in the future. The poems will stand in these new volumes as Burns wished them to stand, or as nearly so as human intelligence can make them. The plan of the editors to achieve this perfection seems a wise one. They "have distinguished between the poems on which he (Burns) set his imprimatur, and those on which he did not; they have rearranged the former according to their dates of publication, and have included the latter under a definite principle of classification." The Centenary edition, as this is to be called, will further be based on many manuscripts hitherto inaccessible to editors. New poems and new readings have been discovered, and altogether the text of the Scotch poet will be offered as never before in his history. The work will be in four octavo volumes.

AUCTION SALES.

[We shall be pleased to insert under this heading, without charge, advance notices of auction sales to be held anywhere in the United States. Word must reach us before Wednesday evening, to be in time for issue of same week.]

FEBRUARY 24–26, 3 P.M.—Private library relating largely to the history of fine arts. (1015 lots.)—Bangs.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers as a guarantee of good faith.

Houses that are willing to deal only on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

SIX MODERN WOMEN.

Psychological Sketches. By LAURA MARHOLM HANSSON. Translated from the German by Hermione Ramsden. 12mo, cloth, $1.25. Contents:

I. THE LEARNED WOMAN: SONIA KOVALEVSKY.
II. NEUROTIC KEYNOTES: GEORGE EGERTON.
III. THE MODERN WOMAN ON THE STAGE: ELEONORA DUSE.
IV. THE WOMAN NATURALIST: AMALIE SKRAM.
V. A YOUNG GIRL'S TRAGEDY: MARIE BASHKIRTSEFF.
VI. THE WOMAN'S RIGHTS WOMAN: A. CH. EDGREN-LEFFLER.

"There are some hidden peculiarities in woman's soul which I have traced in the lives of these six representative women, and I have written them down for the benefit of those who have not had the opportunity of discovering them for themselves.

"There is only one point which I should like to emphasize in these six types of modern womanhood, and that is the manifestation of their womanly feelings. I want to show how it asserts itself in spite of everything—in spite of the theories on which they build up their lives, in spite of the opinions of which they were the teachers, and in spite of the success which crowned their efforts, and bound them by stronger chains than might have been the case had their lives been passed in obscurity."—From the Preface.

Phyllis of Philistia.

By FRANK FRANKFORT MOORE, author of "I Forbid the Banns," etc. 12mo, extra cloth, $1.00.

"Besides the bright dialogue and wealth of epigram we generally expect from Mr. Moore, there is a vein of tragedy in Courtland's relations to Ella Linton. Courtland and his friend's wife are on the verge of a catastrophe in more than one powerful scene. That in which Ella so clearly foresees a lamentable future, and yet will face it, showing the greater unselfishness of the woman's passion, is finely imagined."—Athenæum.

"Sparkling with wit and vivacious dialogue."—Birmingham Post.

"Phyllis is as fine a piece of true womanly flesh and blood as a sympathetic novelist could create."—St. James's Gazette.

"Not a chapter that is not thoughtful, witty, entertaining, or instructive, and the style is always spirited and clever."—Scotsman.

"The story is full of good things, pleasant talk, brilliant writing, and clever satire."—Speaker.

Official, Diplomatic, and Social Etiquette of Washington.

Compiled by KATHERINE ELWES THOMAS, with an introductory note by Mrs. John A. Logan. Bound in buckram, gilt top, and stamping, 75 cents.

Up to this time it has been quite impossible for visitors or residents of the Capital City to procure reliable information on the question of social, diplomatic, or official etiquette. The present volume by Miss Thomas, long a correspondent in Washington, D. C., will be received with pleasure and gratitude. The explanations of situations, social obligations, and matters of ceremony are so explicitly given that none need be unadvised.

Old Maids and Young.

By ELSA D'ESTERRE-KEELING, author of "Orchardscroft," etc., etc. Cassell's Union Square Series. One vol., paper, 50 cents.

"Old Maids and Young" is the story of five maidens—two of them old and three of them young; of the two old maids, one of them is a latter-day Mary and the other a latter-day Martha; of the three young maids, the first becomes in the course of this story a Newnham woman, the second is a sweet Irish girl, and the third is what is sometimes called an "Antic." The story is primarily a study in contemporary maidenhood, and the question put to the reader is: Do you prefer the old maids or the young?

New Edition Now Ready.

Orations and After-Dinner Speeches of Chauncey M. Depew.

One vol., 8vo, with portrait, extra cloth, $2.50.

This volume contains fifty-two representative Orations and After-Dinner Speeches, compiled and edited by Mr. Joseph B. Gilder, and revised by Mr. Depew himself. The selection indicates very fully the wide range of topics to which the orator has turned his attention during the past twenty-five years, and the versatility of his treatment of questions of every degree of gravity and importance.

New Edition at Reduced Price.

Prince Bismarck.

An Historical Biography by CHARLES LOWE, M.A., with two portraits, and an introduction by Edmund Munroe Smith, D.C.L., Professor in Columbia College. In two vols., extra cloth, per set, $2.00; one-volume edition, cloth, $1.50.

This is the first attempt by an English writer to place before the public a complete historical sketch of the career of the great German statesman who occupies such a conspicuous place in the annals of the nineteenth century.

NEW BOOKS

PUBLISHED FEB. 15:

Visions and Service.

Discourses preached in Collegiate Chapels by the Right Rev. WILLIAM LAWRENCE, Bishop of the Diocese of Massachusetts. 16mo, $1.25.

Bishop Lawrence gathers under this felicitous title a group of discourses which cannot fail to attract general attention. They will appeal to all right-minded persons, especially to young men. They are short, definite, interesting, and pleasantly charged with the winning element of Bishop Lawrence's personality.

Joan of Arc.

By FRANCIS C. LOWELL. Large crown 8vo, gilt top, bound in handsome library style, $2.00.

A book comprising the fruits of deep, impartial study of the unique career of the Maid of Orleans. Mr. Lowell's review of the trial gains great value from his experience as a lawyer, and the whole book possesses great value and interest.

Bayard Taylor.

In the series of American Men of Letters. By ALBERT H. SMYTH. With a portrait. 16mo, gilt top, $1.25.

This is a careful, appreciative, sympathetic account of the literary career of Bayard Taylor, whose large and diversified achievements entitle him to a highly honorable place in the ranks of American writers.

The Parson's Proxy.

A Novel. By KATE W. HAMILTON, author of "Rachel's Share of the Road." 16mo, $1.25.

A vigorous, readable novel of the Southern mountain region. The hero is a rough native who injures the parson, atones for his wrong by taking the parson's place, and makes a supreme sacrifice in his behalf. There is much in the story to engage the reader's interest and admiration.

The Spirit in Literature and Life.

By JOHN P. COYLE, D.D. Crown 8vo, $1.50.

A strong, thoughtful book, comprising lectures given at Iowa College, in which Dr. Coyle attempted to interpret the spirit latent in Hebrew literature and life, expressing itself in Jesus Christ, and continuing in the broad stream of Christianity. It is worthy to rank with Dr. Gordon's volume on "The Christ of To-Day," which has made so profound an impression.

The Cambridge Browning.

Fourth Edition* now ready of the handsome Cambridge Edition of Browning's Complete Poetic and Dramatic Works in a single volume. Clear type, opaque paper, a biographical sketch, notes, indexes, a fine portrait. Large crown 8vo, $3.00.

READY FEB. 26:

The Life of Thomas Hutchinson,

Last Royal Governor of the Province of Massachusetts Bay. By JAMES K. HOSMER, author of "Young Sir Henry Vane," and "Samuel Adams" in the American Statesmen Series. With a Portrait of Hutchinson, a View of his Boston Home, and a Fac-simile Letter. 8vo, gilt top, $4.00.

Scant justice has hitherto been done to Hutchinson's sterling qualities, because he was a Loyalist. Dr. Hosmer's book is written with admirable fairness and from full information; it adds materially to our knowledge of the Revolutionary era, and restores Governor Hutchinson to his rightful place as a capable magistrate and a noble man.

Moral Evolution.

By GEORGE HARRIS, D.D., Professor in the Andover Theological Seminary. Crown 8vo, $2.00.

Here is a book which challenges the earnest attention of all who are interested in studies that relate immediately to the highest welfare of mankind, and whoever knows the quality of Dr. Harris's thinking, and the forcible grace of his style will anticipate a work of remarkable value and profound attractiveness.

In New England Fields and Woods.

By ROWLAND E. ROBINSON, author of "Vermont" in the American Commonwealths Series, and "Danvis Folks." 16mo, $1.25.

A charming book, showing minute observation and genuine love of nature. It discusses special aspects of outdoor life in Vermont with an intelligence and spirit like those of Thoreau, Burroughs, and Torrey.

Famous Painters and Paintings.

By JULIA A. SHEDD. New Edition, revised and enlarged. With new illustrations. 12mo, $2.00.

Famous Sculptors and Sculpture.

By JULIA A. SHEDD. New Edition, revised and enlarged. With new illustrations. 12mo, $2.00.

New editions, at reduced prices, of Mrs. Shedd's valuable books, which give brief sketches of the lives of great painters and sculptors, with critical comments on the distinguishing characteristics of their genius and their works.

STIRRING FICTION OF TO-DAY.

A WOMAN INTERVENES.

An important new novel by ROBERT BARR.

Mr. Barr is one of the most remarkable and interesting of American writers. Through all his work runs his strong individuality, and it is entirely fresh and original. A. Conan Doyle calls him one of the best writers of short stories in the world. In describing Mr. Barr's work, Julian Ralph writes: "He is a born story-teller, who comes swinging into your library with a head full of fun and lively spirits and good nature, blended with a very cunning knack at repartee and bright dialogue."

"A Woman Intervenes" deals with life on both sides of the Atlantic. Its characters include promoters, stock speculators, mining engineers, and last, but not least, the modern newspaper woman.

12mo, linen, beautifully stamped with colored inks and silver, $1.25.

Proportional Representation.

By JOHN R. COMMONS, Professor of Sociology in Syracuse University. One vol., v + 298 pp., diagram, maps, appendix, index; cloth, $1.75. (Library of Politics and Economics, vol. viii.)

Professor Commons argues forcibly and eloquently in favor of the plan adopted and recommended by the American Proportional Representation League, of which he was the founder.

He believes that proportional representation will do away with the spoils system; and will be an effective agent in municipal and social reform; and will finally result in freedom from the rule of the party machine, and in the purification of our politics.

The Quotations of the New Testament from the Old.

By FRANKLIN JOHNSON, DD.,

Professor in Chicago University.

12mo, 409 pp. Price, $2.00.

A work which deals in detail with all the quotations made from the Old Testament by the writers of the New. The principles of quotation which obtained in the time of the New Testament writers are brought out by abundant illustrations from classical literature, and the various objections to the form, method, and accuracy of the quotations are satisfactorily met. The book will undoubtedly be recognized as of the highest authority on this subject. It represents ten years of earnest and conscientious study. No scholarly minister or student of the Bible can afford to be without it.

A NEW BOOK BY ANTHONY HOPE

(COPYRIGHTED)

Comedies of Courtship

By ANTHONY HOPE. Uniform with Robert Grant's "The Bachelor's Christmas." 12mo, $1.50.

Anthony Hope has been called by George Meredith a "master of modern dialogue," and this estimate finds amazing and delightful confirmation in this new volume of stories. They are varied in scene and incident, but possess a common characteristic—a light, romantic spirit. The following are their titles: "The Wheel of Love," "The Lady of the Pool," "A Three-Volume Novel," "The Philosopher in the Apple Orchard," "The Curate of Poltons," and "The Decree of Duke Deodonato."

The Jewish Scriptures

The Story of Their Origin and History in the Light of the Latest Criticism. By AMOS K. FISKE. Crown 8vo, $1.50.

A distinctly popular account of the books of the Old Testament considered as history and literature. The standpoint of the writer is radical and in accord with what has been called the higher criticism. The book summarizes in terse and luminous style the results of the study of Hebrew scholars, and the general reader has in it a thoughtful, complete, and interesting handbook on the subject.

The International Critical Commentary

MARK. By Prof. E. P. GOULD, D.D. 8vo, $2.50, net.

Prof. Gould's work is the latest volume in this new commentary, issued under the editorship of Prof. C. A. BRIGGS in America, and Prof. S. R. DRIVER and Rev. ALFRED PLUMMER in Great Britain. Three volumes have previously been issued—Deuteronomy, by Prof. DRIVER; Judges, by Rev. GEORGE MOORE, of Andover; and Romans, by Rev. WILLIAM SANDAY and Rev. A. C. HEADLAM, of Oxford. Each vol., 8vo, $3.00, net.

"A decided advance on all other commentaries."—The Outlook.

The Evolution of Church Music

By the Rev. FRANK LANDON HUMPHREYS. With a Preface by Bishop POTTER, of New York. 12mo, $2.00, net.

Ready March 7th

A NEW NOVEL BY MRS. BURNETT

A Lady of Quality

Being a Most Curious, hitherto Unknown History, related by Mr. Isaac Bickerstaff, but not presented to the World of Fashion through the pages of The Tatler, and now for the first time written down by FRANCES HODGSON BURNETT. 12mo, $1.50.

This new novel of Mrs. Burnett's is sure to prove a genuine surprise to all, so complete and marked a departure is it from any work that has hitherto appeared from her pen. The story is laid in the age of Queen Anne, presenting a vivid and frank picture of the time, and, like "Henry Esmond," is written in the language of the period. The Lady of Quality is a unique character in fiction, and her life is full of moving and dramatic incidents, which Mrs. Burnett relates with great power, and in a manner absolutely new to her readers.
